Memorandum

To: All staff
From: Executive Manager H. Kuff, Wholefoods H.R. Department
Date: August 5
Re: Health and Safety Seminar

In conjunction with the Ministry of Health, Wholefoods will be holding a seminar on workplace safety at Convention Center in downtown Auckland on September 22nd. The seminar has been arranged to ensure all operators and associated staff are aware of the inherent dangers when working at one of our many manufacturing plants.

As you are all aware, we plan on introducing a number of new manufacturing processes and operating procedures at several sites around the country and there are a number of important safety issues that all employees must be made aware of. Additionally, several employees were seriously injured in a preventable accident at our main factory based in Henderson late last year, so all on-site training programs are to be revised. Worker safety is our priority and therefore attendance at this event is compulsory. Workers from our Henderson, Hamilton and Cambridge plants will be provided with company shuttle buses, while the staff at the Auckland factory are asked to make their own travel arrangements.

Jeremy Owen, our Auckland H.R. Manager, is overseeing the seminar. Please contact him to confirm your attendance before the end of the week so he can make all the necessary arrangements.

Some people like modern (a) shopping centres because everything is (b) under one roof and it is (c) convenient. There's (d) a wide range of shops, and if there is anything wrong with something you buy, the shop will replace it, or give you (e) a refund. Other people prefer going to street markets because they like the atmosphere you get from the different stalls. Food and clothes are also usually cheaper in street markets. Sometimes you can try to agree a lower price for something you buy in a street market; we call this haggling. Of course, if you don't like what you buy in a street market, you can't normally take it back and get a refund.
